

Get in touch with your animalistic side on your next trip

Animal lovers, rejoice. Traveling the world for business does not have to mean all work and no play and, whether travelers miss their own pets at home or simply want to try something new, there are numerous hotels that pair animal encounters with a stay.

These incredible spots put you eye to eye with some of nature's most glorious creatures. Dolphin experiences at Caribbean resorts and safari treks in the wild proliferate, but have you ever held a falcon or pet an owl? This might be your chance to experience a different side of nature. Not only do these properties serve as resorts, but many host conference and business groups, too. Animal experiences are a great way to get away from that annoying co-worker and get in on some unconditional love from one of these creatures.
