

December 28, 2015

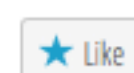

HOTELS WITH HISTORY

The Press Hotel, Portland, Maine (formerly Portland Press Herald Newspaper): This seven-story building was transformed into a 110-room boutique hotel and opened May 2015. The city is fantastic and the property aims to capture the essence of Portland by enabling guests to get under the city's cultural skin through Maine-based artisans, craftsmen and local culinary talent. Creative, dock-to-table and farm-to-fork menus are offered at the new 65-seat restaurant UNION, run by Executive Chef Josh Berry – a self-proclaimed “Mainer.”

Photos and content courtesy of LDPR

SHARE THIS:

Be the first to like this.