

Belle Mont Farm on Kittitian Hill St. Kitts, West Indies THE FACTS

Location:

Belle Mont Farm opened on December 12, 2014, and is located on Kittitian Hill, a responsible community for a sustainable future. Kittitian Hill's 400 acres of fertile farmland is set between Mount Liamuiga and the Caribbean Sea in St. Kitts, West Indies. The extraordinary site affords views of the rugged coastline and neighbouring islands.

Arrive in Style:

Arrive at St. Kitts' Robert L. Bradshaw International airport and enjoy the signature YU Lounge private jet terminal to truly set the tone of a luxurious stay at Belle Mont Farm from the start. Guests who choose this arrival experience are met at their aircraft and escorted to the lounge where they can enjoy refreshments and Caribbean tapas. While the YU Lounge team assists with customs and immigration, luggage will be transferred from tarmac to chauffeured vehicle.

Accommodations:

The first chapter of Kittitian Hill's luxury sustainable development, Belle Mont Farm ("Beautiful Mountain") is a collection of 84 Guesthouses and one four-bedroom Farmhouse set within an organic farm. Ten three- and four-bedroom Villas are also currently available. Accommodations are thoughtfully sowed into the "edible landscape" and designed by world-renowned architect Bill Bensley. Structures are built using Caribbean techniques, local materials and sustainable sources that mirror the architecture of traditional chattel houses.

Guesthouses and Villas feature open verandas and private infinity pools, sweeping views, and al fresco bathrooms with rainwater showers and freestanding roll-top baths. Private attendants are assigned to each accommodation and a 24-hour concierge is on-call. Luxury amenities include Tablets with curated films, which can be viewed on cinema-like screens, and fridges stocked with Sommelier-selected natural wines.

The Farmhouse is designed as a special place to share food and wine with family, friends and business associates. It provides ample space for up to eight people, and includes a large central pavilion with a private 100-foot infinity pool, expansive gourmet kitchen, and curated wine selection by Isabelle Legeron, Belle Mont Farm's Master of Wine. The Farmhouse comes equipped with a personal chef who can create an in-home farm-to-table dinner for guests, or lead a cooking class. Visitors are greeted upon arrival by their Farmhouse team, which includes the private chef and a dedicated housekeeper.

The Experience:

Guests can find a meaningful connection with food, nature and themselves. Travellers are immersed in...

Local culture and heritage: Be captivated by authentic story-telling evenings with Kittitian elders sharing West Indian tales, and "lime" with locals at a soon-to-be-launched Saturday night "Fish Fry."

Farm-to-table experiences: Engage with dedicated Kittitian farmers such as "Nurseryman" Winston Lake and organic agriculturist Yahson Tafari during the visit. Enrichment opportunities abound with cooking classes and workshops. Guests are encouraged to forage from the surrounding farmland – a landscape of passion fruit, bananas and pineapple.

Wellness: Elevate mind, body and spirit with spa services offered in dedicated treatment cottages or in your Guesthouse under the direction of Nickie Myers, Spa Manager. Indigenous ingredients and methods are used; the farm offers 12 essential oils ranging from lemongrass to vetiver grown right on property.

Create your own body scrub incorporating seasonal herbs to bring home the scents of the islands. The Workshop fitness center features state-of-the-art facilities and personal trainers, and yoga can be conducted on Guesthouse verandas overlooking St. Eustatius and the Caribbean Sea.

In 2016, Mango Walk Spa will open, nestled on the edge of the forest high on the mountain, as the ultimate escape and location for relaxation and wellness. Guests can indulge with indigenous-inspired therapies and all organic “wet” treatments, before further rejuvenating the mind and body with a dip in the spa’s private natural pools surrounded by hundred-year-old mango trees.

Organic Farm:

Kittitian Hill’s organic farm offers the largest selection of tropical fruit in the Caribbean, from 100 types of mango to indigenous varieties such as mamie apples and soursop. Coffee crops and cocoa plants are in abundance, as well as vegetables, including Cassava.

Feast:

Good food is at the heart of Belle Mont Farm. Farmers, foragers and chefs ensure that dishes are prepared from the freshest ingredients harvested from the surrounding land and Caribbean Sea. Ninety percent of the restaurants’ dishes are sourced from local purveyors and the farm.

Executive Chef Christophe Letard oversees all food and beverage operations, including The Kitchen restaurant & The Mill bar located at The Great House and the nearby Pool Grille, which offers fresh takes on traditional “comfort food” in a casual outdoor setting. Additional distinct dining experiences include The Farm Table, which features an outdoor communal farm table set amongst vegetable and fruit gardens, and Arthur’s sea-to-fork restaurant on a nearby black sand beach.

Irie Fields

Golf Course:

Irie (i-rie /'Irē/): the state of feeling at peace and harmony; term commonly used by members of the Rastafari movement.

Located on a former marijuana field, Irie Fields will be a Par 71, 18-hole golf course that will embrace its natural landscape and impress even the most seasoned pro. On the world's first "edible golf course" that doubles as farmland, players will snack on fruit growing at every turn. Designed by legendary Welsh golfer-turned-golf-course-designer, Ian Woosnam, Irie Fields is the first golf course to acquire certification in the Golf Environment Organization's LEGACY Program, which showcases the world's most sustainable golf developments.
